

Allies Send Investigators To Check On Charges

Joy Orders Check On Flare Incident

BULLETIN
Tokyo, Saturday, (AP)—The United Nations command said that its forces were not involved in any alleged shootings or entry into the Kaesong neutral zone Aug. 30. The Reds made the charge yesterday.

Tokyo, Saturday (AP)—The Allies today dispatched investigators to check on a new Red charge that a U. S. plane made a bombing attack early this morning near quarters of the chief Red truce negotiator.

Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, chief Allied truce negotiator, took action only a few hours after the Red charge was filed together with this challenge:

"Should you refuse to come, such a choice is up to you."

The bombing charge was the latest in a mounting series which the Communists have piled one upon the other after breaking off the Kaesong talks ten days ago.

The Reds' veiled suggestion that the allies might refuse to check the new charge fitted into a propaganda pattern which they have followed since charging a previous such air attack.

Although the allies promptly investigated and then denied a Red charge that a U. S. plane bombed the neutral Kaesong zone the night of Aug. 22, the Communists have continued to insist that a full investigation never was pursued.

For the first time, allied officers were accompanied by newsmen in an investigation of Red charges.

The investigating officers sent to Kaesong, included, air force Col. Andrew J. Kinney and Marine Corps Col. J. C. Murray.

They were accompanied by staff assistants, newsmen and photographers.

After the Peiping broadcast, a Red liaison officer reported the alleged bombing incident to the allies' Munsan truce camp by radio telephone. His report included a request that the allies send investigators.

Kinney and Murray are the same two liaison officers who checked a previous such bombing charge which the Reds used to break off the Kaesong truce talks Aug. 26. They denied that an allied plane was involved.

The Peiping broadcast said that two bombs were dropped at 12:30 A. M. today and fell less than half a mile from the residence of Lt. Gen. Nam H. Chief Red negotiator, at Pingkotong near Kaesong.

Joy reported his action to allied general headquarters in Tokyo. Today headquarters said investigations refuted two other Red charges. That allied troops were involved in shootings and entry into the Kaesong neutral zone Aug. 30; 2. That an allied plane dropped flares in the zone Aug. 29.

Headquarters said planes did drop flares at 3:40 A. M. August 29—but at points 20 and 25 miles north of Kaesong.

Communists Convicted

Pittsburgh (AP)—Two long-time Pittsburgh Communist leaders yesterday heard a jury find them guilty of violating Pennsylvania's 1939 sedition act.

If the verdict against 46-year-old Andrew Onda and 65-year-old James Dolsen is upheld the men may spend most of their remaining lives behind bars.

Senate Passes Foreign Aid Bill At Much Lower Figure Than Requested By President

Washington (AP)—The Senate last night passed a trimmed-down foreign aid bill authorizing $7,286,250,000 to erect military and economic defenses against Soviet Communism. The total was $1,213,750,000 less than President Truman asked.

In its closing action, the Senate chopped an additional quarter billion dollars off the $7,533,750,000 figure recommended by its Foreign Relations and Armed Services committees.

The roll call vote on final passage was 61 to 5.

The big bill, carrying authorization for Mr. Truman's program for bolstering foreign nations against Communism, now goes to conference with the House to compromise differences in Senate and House versions.

The House sliced $1,001,250,000 off the president's $8,500,000,000 request in its version passed two weeks ago.

Final Senate action came after more than 12 hours of continuous session.

In hammering out a completed bill, the Senate refused either cut funds as much as an extra $500,000,000 or to restore Mr. Truman's $8,500,000,000 figure. It also rejected an attempt to put the whole program under a single new administration.

But in a surprise move which caught Democratic leaders off guard, it voted 36-34 to slash $250,000,000 off authorizations for economic aid to Europe.

A proposal to apply an equal cut to military aid for Europe was rejected, while the move to give the president his full $8,500,000,000 was soundly defeated 56 to 17.

The whole increase in the committee bill was an extra $37,500,000.

British Twin-Jet Bomber Sets New Unofficial Atlantic Mark

Gander, Newfoundland (AP)—A British twin-jet bomber with the sun as its pacemaker blazed across the Atlantic yesterday in four hours and 19 minutes, bettering easily the unofficial record set February 21 by a sister plane.

Kids Quit Playing After Grenade Is Unloaded

New York, (AP)—A passer-by in Brooklyn yesterday glanced at two small boys playing catch—and his hair stood straight on end.

They were using a hand grenade, still equipped with its firing pin.

Police bomb squad men checked it gingerly. It was unloaded.

The boys, about five or six years old, fled after their once-lethal toy was seized.

Senate Votes To Drop Tax From All Telegrams

Washington, (AP)—The Senate finance committee voted yesterday to cut the Federal tax on telegraph, cable and radio messages to 15 per cent of the sum charged the sender.

Under present law the tax is 25 per cent; the House has voted to make it 20 per cent.

It was a little unusual, but not unprecedented, for the Senate committee and the House to recommend cuts in present taxes. In nearly all other cases, the rates have been to increase the taxes.

Only yesterday, however, the Senate committee voted to accept a House plan to eliminate the 3 1/3 per cent tax on electric light bills.

Senate Crime Committee Issues Report

Washington, (AP)—The Senate Crime Committee in a dramatic final report said yesterday democracy is vanishing in a number of American communities held "captive" by racketeers and grafting public officials and infested by the evils of illicit drug traffic.

Winding up its 15-month investigation of nationwide crime, the committee urged the nation's cities, big and small, to band in a fight against the twin scourges of organized crime and corruption.

The committee, whose televised hearings thrilled millions with close-ups of bigtime racket chiefs, gamblers, hoodlums, twitching drug addicts and suspect political leaders, went out of existence at midnight last night.

Calling for a coast-to-coast crusade to clean up America, the committee declared the time is ripe now because an aroused populace is "rising up to demand that police and prosecutors exert greater vigilance in tracking down and convicting the criminals who thrive under the protective umbrella of official corruption."

The report took aim at Florida's Gov. Fuller Warren and former mayor William O'Dwyer of New York, now U. S. Ambassador to Mexico.

It blasted Warren for his "persistent refusal" to testify before the committee under oath about the gambling-political tieups in Florida, and, somewhat more softly than in an earlier report, criticized O'Dwyer as a friend of hoodlums.

The Senate committee called for the creation of privately financed local crime commissions across the land.

And it urged that a National Crime Coordinating committee, launched with a $100,000 grant by Congress, be set up to guide the local commissions and keep "the searchlight of public vigilance" turned on the underworld.

The committee's 103-page report declared that some U. S. cities and towns have become "captive communities," held in virtual bondage by racket overlords and political grafters, because honest people have lost their voice in their own local government.

And it warned that the underworld is now greedily reaching out for new revenues, fattening on a lucrative traffic in narcotics. It said the victims have been "thousands" of teen-agers and school children deliberately turned into drug addicts by being lured into "thrill" experiments with marijuana, heroin and other drugs.

Far from giving a clean slate to Congress' own bailiwick, the Senate group pictured the nation's capital as a possible "pivotal point of gambling operations of considerable size."

It recommended that a new Senate committee undertake a "thorough investigation" of crime in Washington and the nearby Maryland-Virginia areas, with emphasis on what it called evidence of "widespread traffic in narcotic drugs."

Possible End To Copper Strike In View

Washington (AP)—A possible early end to the nationwide copper strike was signalled yesterday in agreement on a 15-cents-an-hour raise for workers in the Salt Lake City plants of Kennecott Copper Corporation.

While only 3,400 workers were affected by this agreement, it was seen as a possible pattern for the 58,000 who have been on strike since Monday.

Kennecott is one of the big copper producers, the others being Phelps-Dodge, Anaconda, and American Smelter and Refining. In all, about 100,000 workers have been idle, since AFL union members have refused to cross picket lines set up by the striking mine, mill and smelter workers, an independent union ousted from the CIO last year.

The Kennecott agreement on 15 cents was a compromise between the 16 cents asked by the unions and the 14.85 cents offered by management. These figures themselves represented concessions made on both sides since contract negotiations were begun. The industry's wage range has been from $1.31 an hour for laborers to $1.62 for miners.

President Truman only last night invoked the emergency provision of the Taft-Hartley labor law in an effort to end the strike, which has cut off vital supplies from defense production needs. He said the walkouts, "if permitted to occur or continue, will imperil the national health and safety."

In invoking the law, Mr. Truman set up a three-man board of inquiry to make a report to him by next Tuesday. He could then get an 80-day injunction against the strike.

Union leaders had said previously that their men would go back to work if an injunction were obtained, an agreement negotiated or if the government seized the mines and smelters. The 15-cent Kennecott agreement is still subject to approval by the union members.

Allies Advance In Korea

U. S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Saturday, (AP)—Hard-fighting Allied troops gained up to four miles in East Korea Friday under cover of one of the heaviest warship and plane assaults of the Korean war.

Allied headquarters said today that Communist resistance to the drive was heavy. Counter-attacks by Red battalions were repulsed. Supporting the drive, warships off the east coast poured shells into Red assembly points, ammunition dumps, factories, rail and road arteries.

The Reds were shoved off one key peak.

The Peiping Red radio, quoting an Aug. 31 front line dispatch, said the Communists had opened counter-attacks in the east Korean sector after "checking the reckless drives of the American and Rhee's troops."

Syngman Rhee is president of the south Korean republic.

Peiping claimed that more than 7,700 U. N. and south Korean troops were "put out of action" in Korea in the five-day period ended August 25.

Voters Will Have To Wait To Make Change

Harrisburg, (AP)—Lawmakers will have to act quickly if Pennsylvania's 77-year-old constitution is to be revamped in the next two years.

But the chances are today that voters won't get to ballot on the issue until at least 1953.

If the legislature acts with clockwork precision the question of whether to hold a convention to revise the constitution still can be put to the people on Nov. 6 election," Gene D. Smith, secretary of the commonwealth, told a reporter.

State Allocates Money To Troubled Teachers

Harrisburg (AP)—The Commonwealth yesterday allocated $138,000 to help pay back salaries of hundreds of teachers in Schuylkill and Northumberland counties.

The amount, however, is far short of the actual amount owed to instructors in the financially distressed school districts. That figure has been estimated by teachers' spokesmen at more than $300,000.

About 145 teachers from eight of the districts took action last night to strike next week unless their back salaries are paid in full. They are from Blythe, Branch, Reilly, Cass and Kline townships, Gilberton and New Philadelphia, Schuylkill county, and Kulpmont in Northumberland county.

The meeting, at Primrose, near Pottsville, also saw the teachers vote to convene there again next Thursday night to reassess the situation at that time.

State Treasurer Charles B. Barber, meanwhile, said he would use special messengers to forward the state checks as soon as requisites are made by the public instruction department.

The department, however, has laid down conditions for the affected school districts which must be met to qualify for the grants.

DEFENSE MOBILIZER Charles Wilson says goodbye to pilot just after landing at Stroudsburg airport last night. With him are Mrs. Wilson and daughter, Margaret. Defense Mobilizer In Poconos For Vacation

Defense Mobilizer Charles Wilson arrived at the Stroudsburg-East Stroudsburg airport last night.

As he stepped from the plane at 7:15 p. m. to begin a brief three-day vacation here he did not look like a man fresh from the Washington trenches.

Even as he kissed his wife and daughter, Margaret, word was going out over press wires that the end of the crippling nation-wide copper strike was in sight.

The tall, spare, blue-suited national mobilization chief was optimistic but cautious.

"I didn't know even this afternoon if I'd be able to get here," he said.

Truman Writes Another Letter -- This Time On Price Control

Washington (AP)—President Truman blasted anew yesterday at a "terrible" provision in the new price control law and said he doubted whether its author, Senator Capehart (R-Ind.), understood it.

Mr. Truman expressed his views in a personal letter to Capehart, typed on pale green note paper.

It was the latest in a series of select harshes the letter-writing President has tossed into the mails during his career in the White House.

It was by no means the first letter from Capehart reminding Mr. Truman whether Mr. Truman would guarantee the people a lower cost of living if the controls law is changed to conform to the administration's ideas.

Capehart's letter said that only a year ago Mr. Truman was saying that price controls were not necessary at all in the "foreseeable future." The senator raised the question whether Mr. Truman was not trying now to "use the Congress as a scapegoat for poor judgment."

The Capehart amendment, one of three provisions Mr. Truman wants removed from the control law, allows seller to pass on to consumers all cost increases between the start of the Korean war and July 26, 1951.

Capehart released the Truman letter at a Senate Banking committee hearing on changes in the law. It read in part:

"I appreciated your letter of the twenty-seventh, and read it with a lot of interest. It seems to me to be strictly a political document intended to offset the terrible Capehart amendment to the production act."

"It is too bad that you didn't consider your amendment before it was tacked on to the defense production act. In fact, I read your explanation of it in the record, and after I read it I was in some doubt as to whether you understood it yourself or not."

"In response to your question, let me say that I cannot guarantee the American people that we will have lower prices and a lower cost of living than we have today, even if the changes recommended in the defense production act are made. The inflationary pressures are probably going to be so great that it will be hard to hold the line even with the strongest kind of law."

"However, it is my considered judgment that we will have lower prices and a lower cost of living if your amendment is repealed than we will have if it is left in the law."

There have been reports the U. S. was working on development of artillery shells packing Atomic explosive power.

The only wartime use of Atomic weapons -- the bombs dropped on Japan -- amounted to what military men call strategic use -- striking at plants and bases which support the fighting forces.

"Tactical" use would be their employment directly against armed forces.

"I left on the assumption that the Kennecott union men would go back to work on Tuesday."

The strikers at the Kennecott Copper Corporation's Salt Lake City plant are widely regarded as a key in the strike.

"We started the process of invoking the Taft-Hartley law—but then things began to look a little better."

"I don't know if the other unions—or other companies, for that matter—will agree on the settlement (of the wage dispute), but we hope so. We've got to have that copper."

The Taft-Hartley process was begun by President Truman Thursday night in an effort to end the walkout which started Monday.

He ordered a board of inquiry to report back to him Sept. 4. Meanwhile, mediators tried to end the deadlock.

Wilson's last-minute take-off from Washington in the big General Electric converted B-23 brought him to the airport here about 45 minutes late.

Mrs. Wilson and Margaret, a Syracuse University junior, had driven to Shawnee Inn yesterday morning from their home in Searsville, N. Y.

As they waited alone at the airport, Mrs. Wilson kept glancing at her wrist-watch like any worried wife.

Airport Manager Hal Hamlen kept assuring her: "He'll be along, Mrs. Wilson."

Light mist was forming over the airport field and the sun was just touching the distant ridges when the plane circled the airport once, landed, and taxied back toward the hangar.

The mobilization chief climbed down a moment later looking fit and remarkably relaxed.

He slapped his pilot on the shoulder and said, in farewell, "O. K. Andy—Tuesday morning, then."

Wilson had a hand shake for Hamlen, paused to grin at the two blond-haired girls romping nearby. "They're sure grown since last time," he said.

The mobilization chief and his daughter landed at the airport a year ago last June on a previous Pocono vacation. He was still president of the General Electric Corp. at that time.

The Wilsons walked directly to their black club coupe. Mrs. Wilson got in back, and Margaret slid in next to her father.

"This is one time I didn't bring a briefcase along," Wilson smiled. "This is going to be a vacation—unless I get called back before it's over."

As the coupe drove off toward Shawnee Inn, airport manager Hamlen stood staring after it. He shook his head.

"Sure wouldn't like to have his job," he said.

Take Stand Against Increases

Harrisburg, (AP)—Retail liquor dealers yesterday took a stand against proposed increases in liquor and beer license fees in Pennsylvania.

J. Grant Peterson, Williamsport, president of the retail liquor dealers of Pennsylvania, told a reporter that members definitely are opposed to higher license fees.

"But we are very much interested," he added, "in what happens to the other liquor bills in the assembly. We do not want to see them held up."

Accident Victim Still "Critical"

George Kochera Jr., six, struck by a car Thursday night, was still in "critical condition" late last night at Monroe County General hospital.

The driver of the car, Morris Birnbaum, of Middletown, N. Y., is free on $1,500 cash bond, pending hearing.

He had been charged after the accident with assault and battery with a motor vehicle.

The boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Kochera Sr., East Stroudsburg RD 2, was struck while crossing Route 209 at Craigs Meadows.

He apparently ran into the side of Birnbaum's car. The impact tore loose part of the skull, exposing the brain.

The child was on his way to the store for butter. After the accident a neighbor drove the boy and his father to the hospital. An ambulance was not called.

Surgeons at first held little hope of the child's recovery. After several hours on the operating table, however, it was reported the boy "might" have a chance.

Both the parents have spent nearly all their time since the accident waiting at the hospital.

Attorney Has Different Story

Missoula, Mont. (AP)—Frank C. Bingham, removed from office as a U. S. district attorney in Alaska, said yesterday he had been taking an annual leave of absence approved in Washington.

President Truman ordered the removal yesterday. An aide said Bingham just "disappeared" after attending a conference in Washington. The aide said Bingham later was found in private practice in Montana.

In an interview at his Missoula home, Bingham called the whole affair an administrative error. He added that "I still have several weeks of the leave left."

"Before leaving my office at Nome (Alaska), I requested my secretary to inform me of any business which might require my personal attention," Bingham added. "I have been in constant communication with the office."

He said he planned earlier to go into law partnership with a Missoula attorney. Plans had reached the state where a listing was placed in the telephone directory, he said, before the men changed their minds.

Bingham added he has not practiced here since his arrival.

Representing Bangor in this nationally famous derby will be Rod-dick Klappel and William Usch. Coaches from the Philadelphia and Wildwood, N. J., derbies being held today, are expected to enter the early part of next week.

The affair is sponsored by the State City Lodge, 72 Loyal Order of Moose, Bangor, in conjunction with the American Coaster Derby Association. A parade, which will include contestants, judges, local derby officials, heads of the ACDA, and Ralph Correll, chairman of the parade, will be held prior to the racing. The Bangor Comet Band, under the direction of Charles Steinmetz, will lead the parade.

A banquet for all the participants and derby officials will be held after the parade at the Blue Valley Farm Show building on the Bangor-Pen Argy highway.

The winner of this national contest will receive, among other things, a college scholarship.

Harriman Hopeful Iranian Oil Dispute Will Be Settled

Washington (AP)—Ambassador W. Averell Harriman said yesterday he hoped that after a "cooling off period" the Iranian government will come forward with proposals which will bring about a settlement of the oil dispute with Britain.

Canada Raps Action Of United States

Ottawa (AP)—Canada has accused the United States of violating the Geneva trade agreement by restricting imports of cheese and other dairy products.

In a diplomatic note made public yesterday the government said recent U. S. decision to control such imports has created situation of urgent concern to Canada.

The 300-word note was delivered to the State department in Washington earlier this week. It said the move threatens immediate damage to Canadian-American trade and called on the U. S. to review the action.

Canada's protest was against an order of the U. S. Department of Agriculture restricting imports of fats, oils, cheese and other dairy products. The order was issued as a result of a rider attached by Congress to the U. S. government's main defense production and price control bill.

The rider required that imports be restricted during the period in which the U. S. government is controlling prices.

President Truman already has asked Congress to repeal the rider on the ground that it is unnecessary and contrary to U. S. government policy on reciprocal trade agreements.

$3,872,600 Alloted For Signal Depot

Washington—Included in a vast military construction program costing more than $5,800,000,000 approved yesterday by the Senate Armed Services Committee, is $3,872,600 for completion of the Signal Corps Depot at Tobyhanna, Pa.

The additional allocation for Tobyhanna, first reported when the construction program appeared in the House, is part of additional funds granted for several depot installations and expansion programs.

The House approved the military construction program request. The Senate had added $95,000,000 to the House total, about $50,000,000 of which is for additional depot and storage facilities in the Continental United States.

The program is the largest single military public works program ever presented to Congress in time of peace or war.

Cries of Anguish

Civil Defense officials over the country, taking a cue from Federal Civil Defense Administrator Millard Caldwell, have raised a king-sized complaint about the drastic cut in the congressional appropriation for this purpose.

It hardly can be said this Congress has been miserly about the big-spending programs the Administration has proposed. The congressional paring knife, on the whole, has been sparingly used.

In the case of Civil Defense, however, the House Appropriations Committee used an ax. It did this because it couldn't find much realism in Mr. Caldwell's demand for $535 million.

Mayors, Governors and local Civil Defense directors have been echoing Mr. Caldwell's complaint that he can't now "protect" the civilian population against atomic attack.

But just what did the House Appropriations Committee do?

It granted Mr. Caldwell all he asked for in an attack-warning system, communications and a training and education program, in the belief that these are the "primary requirements for a well-founded civil defense."

It laid out $50 million for medical supplies and equipment. And it said that another $25 million was available, on a state-matching basis, in a previous appropriation.

And it set up $4½ million for handouts to states and municipalities to help them install alarms, communications and rescue services.

What other job is there for Civil Defense to do?

Most of the big cut made in Mr. Caldwell's request was in one item. He asked $250 million for bomb shelters. The committee took it all out. It said there was no need for this program and no adequate plan for carrying it out.

It would take many times $250 million to build enough bomb shelters for the whole country. It would take more money than even the Federal Government can spend.

It would take millions of tons of scarce materials badly needed for military purposes. The job could not be done in years of feverish construction.

Mr. Caldwell says most of the members of Congress "simply don't know what can happen."

Well, they know what can happen if our military forces aren't big enough to fend off a Russian attack. And they know that attack can be stopped, not by building bomb shelters, but by building an impregnable military might.

Bound To Be Useful

Democratic National Chairman William M. Boyle has been accused of using his influence on the Reconstruction Finance Corp.

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch has charged that after a St. Louis firm, which twice before had been turned down, finally received an RFC loan of more than a half-million dollars, Mr. Boyle was paid a substantial fee.

The RFC head in St. Louis said he had been approached several times by a friend and political associate of Mr. Boyle in behalf of this loan.

But a Senate subcommittee, headed by Senator Clyde R. Hoey, North Carolina Democrat, nevertheless has voted to investigate.

Everybody can't be right in this picture. Smoke isn't always a sign of fire—it may be just a smudge-pot.

But Mr. Boyle is a highly important personality in national affairs. He is the head of the top political party and buddy-buddy with the President.

If he is as innocent as he says he is, some reasonably unbiased agency ought to clear away all suspicion, decisively. In any case, the story should be pinpointed in the public interest.

Let the Hoey committee get to the bottom—and look closely at the sides and the top, too.

Try And Stop Me

The Volta Review tells about a three-year-old who, unfortunately, was very hard of hearing, but compensated partially therefore with an abnormally high I.Q. She wore her hearing aid like a seasoned veteran, and furthermore, when she wanted to cry, turned off her aid, and when the tantrum was over, calmly turned it on again.

Charles Mathis was having a fine time at the movies one evening, he recalls, "witnessing a terrific love scene" but just when the action was becoming most intriguing a spool-sport of an usher made him turn around and look at the screen.

Herbert Bayard Swope's definition of a crisis is "something which the people were warning the government about two years earlier."

Hollywood

By Gene Handsaker

Hollywood—Randolph Scott, a western star for nearly 20 years, allows he has no hankering to be any other kind.

"Oh, sure, if the right story came along," he conceded, "I'd like to play an FBI man, Jay, or I'd love a good sea story. But leave westerns permanently? No, sir."

"You become identified with a certain thing, and it's paid off in my case. I know some real good actors who are looking for work—and don't ask me why."

Randy reflected on the advantages of playing westerns:

"They're never dated. Pictures I made six and seven years ago are being re-issued. When a picture has played its time out, it's pulled off the market another 12 months until there's a new audience—the kids coming up."

"Jesse James" (1937) has been released three times. "Pittsburgh" and "The Spoilers" are 10 years old or so. They've been released a number of times."

And as for fans, as revealed in their letters—

"You'd be surprised how many people, penned up in the big cities almost never get out into the open country. Outside of reading about the West, their only contact is what they see in films."

Scott got headed down the western trail because Paramount owned film rights to a number of Zane Grey sagebrush novels. They'd been successful films starring Richard Dix and Jack Holt, so Randy did 'em over in sound. "Riders of the Purple Sage," "Man of the Forest," "To The Last Man," and others.

Scott dressed the same as his predecessors so certain trick shots from the previous films could be inserted.

He got out of the saddle for "Roberia" in 1934 with Fred Astaire, Ginger Rogers, and Irene Dunne. In "Follow the Fleet" he was Astaire's sailor pal. In "High, Wide and Handsome," with Miss Dunne, he was an oil-field engineer.

But somehow he always kept heading back to the open range.

These Days — By George E. Sokolsky

Sokolsky

Agnes Smedley I knew Agnes Smedley in Shanghai in the years between 1926 and 1931. I do not recall the exact date when she appeared as correspondent for the "Frankfurter Zeitung," but I do recall that she came with letters to Mme Sun Yat-Sen from Communists in Germany and Russia.

She was an embittered woman who hated her father. In Germany, she married a Hindu. She was antipathetic to all so-called "white" people, who to her were inferior to Asiatics. Her personal circle consisted largely of Chinese, Japanese, Hindus and other Asiatics for whom she had an unusual attraction.

I knew that Agnes Smedley was a Communist because at one stage she tried to recruit me and became antagonistic to me when I acted dumb and seemed not to understand what she was talking about. She was apparently stationed in Shanghai for recruiting purpose.

Although Agnes Smedley was an American, she had no attachments to this country and said so. Her hatred for America arose from her hatred for her father, who, according to her, abused her mother. She wrote a book about that.

General Charles A. Willoughby, of General MacArthur's staff, found that Agnes Smedley was a member of the Richard Sorge espionage group, operating on behalf of Soviet Russia in China and Japan. In 1939, he made a report to the Army on the Sorge case which received considerable publicity in the United States, having been released by the Army and then withdrawn.

This report, the following colloquy took place at the McCarran committee hearings:

"Senator Ferguson. Do you know whether or not that was ever recalled, or what happened to that report?"

"General Willoughby. If I interpret your question correctly, senator, the report was filed by us, meaning the headquarters in Tokyo, as a normal intelligence or internal security report of which there were many in the period. They (the Army) decided to publish, to release it because it compared most favorably with the then notorious Canadian espionage case. We made, of course, no objection . . ."

"Senator Ferguson. So that it was released; is that correct?"

"General Willoughby. It was released."

"Senator Ferguson. Was it ever withdrawn?"

"General Willoughby. Not by us."

"Senator Ferguson. By anybody?"

"General Willoughby. Actually there was what I would term an indirect repudiation based solely on Agnes Smedley's protestation at the time, including a threat of libel."

I am sure that the American consulate in Shanghai and military intelligence in China, as early as 1929, had reports on Agnes Smedley's activities in China. Then there are the fully authenticated reports from our own intelligence and the Japanese police in the Sorge case. Yet the War department public relations officer "as well as officials of the Secretary of War's office, then under Mr. Royall" withdrew the charges on the threat of libel. General Willoughby says:

"The result was that no action was taken on this report. Smedley never sued for libel, though her legal representative, Mr. Rogge, threatened to do that; and the case died, you might say, because of lack of further attention."

After the Smedley report was withdrawn by the War department, the following lawyers studied the evidence:

J. Woodall Greene, member of the Maryland bar; J. S. Carusi, member of the Connecticut bar;

Franklin E. N. Warren, member of the Oklahoma bar and member of the New Mexico bar; and finally E. V. A. De Becker and Rokuro Yusami, a firm of international Tokyo lawyers who are members of the Middle Temple of London and members of the Inner Temple of London.

Their conclusion was:

"Based upon our examination of the documents listed immediately heretofore, it is the opinion of the undersigned that these evidences establish proof that Richard Sorge and his associates were espionage agents for the Russian Army and that Agnes Smedley and Guentier Stein are Communists in mind, spirit, and practice, and that they were actively and knowingly connected with the Sorge spy ring in China and Japan . . ."

Now, this case is dead, as is Agnes Smedley. But the importance of the foregoing testimony lies in this question:

Who in the War department or in any other department of government was so powerful that whenever we bumped up against a Russian spy, a Russian spy ring, an American in Russia's service, the spies were protected and the Americans who uncovered them were repudiated and attacked and even eliminated from public life?

This question must be answered for our safety as a nation.

Thoughts On A Jumper

Bernarr MacFadden, at the age of 83, made a 2,000-foot jump by parachute into the Hudson River the other day. When he landed he didn't feel a day over 100. What was he trying to prove, that a man is as old as he leaps? That life begins at 2,000 feet? That too many Americans in their declining years are unhappy because they stick to easy chairs instead of spending leisure hours in a river or in the upper branches of a tree? Bernarr is a remarkable American who has never let the country forget it. He was Ajax of grandpa's day, the pioneer in health drives, a man whose rippling muscles, flashing from the pages of his magazines, were known to millions who succumbed to the "You, too, can give your tailor trouble with the vest and pants" appeal. Diet as a key to vigor, vim and perfect trim was emphasized by him for a couple of generations. Crashing the headlines is not as easy as it used to be, however. Photographs of muscles won't do it. And the competition in the diet business is too keen.

So what? On a quiet August Sunday people look up and what-izit falling through the air, apparently in red undies? Who is it?

Bert Lahr in an encore of his "Space Cadet" sketch? . . . Averell Harriman in a new mission technique? . . . John Foster Dulles eluding Gromyko? . . . Abe Zwillman, the missing Kefauver witness? . . . Another pitcher hurriedly called for by the Giants? . . . Governor Dewey getting back to New York, the hard way?

Lemme have those binoculars, bub! . . . It could be a flying saucer . . . But flying saucers do not have legs or wear long red undies . . . Look! . . . Shiver my boom timbers if it ain't Bernarr MacFadden, one-time Buck Rogers. Number One physical culture advocate, former newspaper publisher, hotel owner and general businessman! . . . Starting as a parachutist! . . . But why? . . . Trouble at home? . . . Paying an election bet? . . . Getting out of a request to put in Sunday fixing porch screens? . . . Showing contempt for suspension bridges, ferryboats and super tunnels? Trying to prove that the first eighty-three years are the driest?

Fished out of the river, Bernarr explained that it was a demonstration in courage and vigor, but was it necessary? Not in his case. For some years ago he suddenly decided to become a newspaper publisher despite the terrific problems, and in so doing almost proved he could survive a 2,000-foot jump WITHOUT A PARACHUTE!

Inside Washington

Washington—The Navy's sensational announcement that a contract had been placed for the world's first atom-powered submarine took a bit of the edge off Washington speculation concerning the production of electricity with atomic energy.

Insiders had expected the Soviet Union to come up with an announcement—any day now—that it was using A-power to produce electricity. The fact is that the United States Atomic Energy Commission already is turning out "A-juice" but has been unwilling to discuss progress in this direction because it may be some time before certain experiments will be considered conclusive.

There are three main reasons why the AEC has held back on any announcement about atomic electricity.

For one thing, the commissioners are very much averse to any "stunt" production of power. By that, they mean that the electricity must be economical. They point out that it would be possible to rig up an apparatus on any smokestack to produce electricity but that the procedure would have no significance.

For another thing, the experimental power plant at Arco, Ida., is producing 100 kilowatts of electricity successfully but there will be no guarantee that the power is economical unless it creates more atomic fuel than it burns.

In the third place, the rate at which fuel is consumed, possibly led to this woman by God's bidding.

Peter was staying with Simon, a tanner, when, going up to the roof to take a nap, he had a vision wherein he, being hungry, saw a sheet let down from heaven with all manner of animals in it, and a voice told him to kill and eat.

Peter said he could not do so, as many of the beasts were "unclean" according to the Jewish law. The voice said, "What God hath cleansed, that call not thou common."

Peter wondered what meaning the vision had, but just then his host called that there were three men waiting to see him. The men came from a Roman centurion named Cornelius, and they said he must go with them to their master's house.

Cornelius was a saintly man and he wanted to embrace the Christian religion. Hearing that Peter was nearby he had sent for him.

As Peter neared Cornelius' house, the soldier came running to meet him and threw himself on his face before Peter, worshipping him. Peter raised him saying, "Stand up; I myself also am a man."

Peter might have taken this homage as his due; he was, with his brother, Andrew, the first man Jesus called to follow Him. He was considered the head of the early Christian church, but in his own opinion he was just "a man." Let all who feel puffed up because of their success in life—whether they be churchmen or laymen, take note of this passage in the Acts.

Finding that Cornelius had gathered together a number of people into his house, Peter began his talk by reminding them that the Jewish law forbade a Jew from coming to one of another nation, but that God had shown him in a vision that he should call nothing that came from Him common or unclean. He baptized the people in the house, and they received the Holy Ghost.

The lesson is clear: "God is no respecter of persons," as Peter was convinced. "Christ is all, and in all." Colossians 3:11.

a pound a year, is so slow that it will be months before the fuel can be taken out to see whether the machine has created more new radioactive atoms than have been destroyed by splitting.

Road Work—Political insiders in Washington take it for granted that President Truman will light out on a transcontinental "whistle stop" tour shortly after Oct. 1.

Congress is expected to adjourn on that date, leaving unfinished some of the legislative business Mr. Truman has labeled as "must," and failing to satisfy him on other items.

Therefore the President is eager to go to the country with his side of the story and to complain in his tried-and-tested, off-the-cuff fashion about the Republicans and Southern Democrats whom he accuses of having ganged up against him.

The junket may be camouflaged as a tour of defense plants and military installations, but its political overtones will be obvious. Shrewd Presidential advisers, including Senate Secretary Leslie Riddle, have counseled Mr. Truman that his popularity with the grass roots folks is on the rise and that now is the time for him to make a personal appearance tour.

Most observers expect the President to decide, from the reaction to his proposed trip, whether or not he will seek a return trip to the White House in 1952.

Minsk.

One day the Minister of the Tractor and Auto Industry was scheduled to visit the factory on an inspection trip.

Suslov was not very pleased about the visit. His tractor production was way behind schedule.

So he called hundreds of workers out of the factory and put them to work planting pansies, roses and other flowers and beautifying the grounds all around the place.

The men built nicely sanded paths and splashed silver paint over trash cans and other unsightly spots.

Comrade Suslov hoped that Comrade Khlamov, the minister, would not notice the unrepainted roof, the rusting tools and the tractors with parts missing.

Instead, he hoped, he would notice the big sign over the entrance door "Welcome to Comrade Khlamov, representative of the great Stalin," and the vases filled with flowers.

(Incidentally, according to Izvestia the Soviet newspaper, Comrade Suslov also used a very unorthodox method of cleaning the window panes of his factory, a method which, however, I do not recommend to American housewives. He simply summoned the fire brigade and had the firemen knock out all the dirty window panes.)

At any rate, his grandiose scheme went awry.

Comrade Khlamov was not fooled by Comrade Suslov's tricks—and at this writing Comrade Suslov is either on his way to the salt mines, or, for all I know, he may be looking for his head.

I wonder whether this little story is not typical of all Russia. I wonder whether all that bluster, all that talk, all that saber rattling isn't just a colossal bluff.

I wonder whether we are justified in being so terribly afraid of a country that puts up an iron curtain—for what?

ther or not he will seek a return trip to the White House in 1952.

Argentine Election—Diplomatic observers are looking for a flare-up of violence in Argentina when dictator-president Juan Peron comes up for re-election next February.

Travelers recently returned from Argentina report that discontent is more widespread than the government-controlled news dispatches would indicate.

They are not by any means predicting any overthrow of the Peron government, but they do believe that Peron may have more trouble getting back into office than he has ever had before.

News of the recent railroad strike was too big to be suppressed but the outside world hears little of other evidence that Peron is losing popular support.

For one thing, travelers insist that Argentinians are becoming increasingly tired of Evita, Peron's ambitious blond wife. Some anti-administration congressmen have even dared ask publicly for an accounting of the millions of pesos allegedly poured into the Senora Peron's entertainment fund.

Then there are reports of inflation rampages with the cost of food especially high. This, in a land of agricultural plenty, is said to be particularly hard for Argentinians to bear quietly.

Every once in a while some visitor will come to our house when it is very much in disorder. My wife will say to me "Keep 'em busy out in the garden. Show 'em the river. Show 'em the ducks. But, for heaven's sakes, don't let them in till I give the signal."

Could that be Russia? Afraid to let us see the awful mess her house is in?

Let us all heed the advice General Eisenhower sent along to us by way of the Foreign Relations Subcommittee which recently visited Europe:

"The material, intellectual, spiritual, technical and professional resources available to the free world are so overwhelming as compared to what the iron curtain and satellite countries have, that it is almost ridiculous to be talking in terms of fright and hysteria which we often do."

Let us remember the story of Comrade Khlamov and Comrade Suslov.

Russia's atom bombs may just be roses and pansies.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Wind up the clock again, girls, because after this last fling, time will again be an important commodity, to be rationed out in small doses and with due regard to value received.

After the spendthrift summer, when you spent the hours freely and with both hands nor kept an accounting of where they went, it's going to be sort of hard to turn miser and dole the minutes out a few at a time.

So many for getting the children ready for school—so many for packing lunches, so many for getting ready for afternoon meetings—and looking at the clock so many times a day that it's a wonder you don't wear the numerals off.

The clock looms large in my thinking right now because Monday morning I begin broadcasting from home again, and had to resurrect the radio clock from the top of the garage where it had served some mysterious purpose in rainy-day play.

There's something very aging about watching the sweep hand of a clock brushing the seconds away so fast—but bringing closer, too, lots of very pleasant things—including the meetings with old friends who have also been refugees from "doing time."

Miss Peggy Bush Is Bride Of Richard G. Doleiden

Miss Peggy Thompson Bush, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Bush, Stroudsburg RD3, became the bride of Richard Gordon Doleiden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Doleiden, S. Eighth St., Stroudsburg, last night at 7:30 in the Stroudsburg Presbyterian church.

Rev. Ernest T. Campbell performed the double ring ceremony in the presence of many friends and relatives. Bouquets of white gladioli and palms formed the background for the wedding party, and Vernon C. Imbt, organist, played a medley of wedding music and the wedding marches. The family pews were marked by white satin bows and there was a white aisle carpet.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Joseph Bush, wore a gown of white Chantilly lace over white satin, with a tiny upstanding collar on the fitted bodice, which had long sleeves. The full skirt ended in a train, and her double veil of illusion fell from a tiara of seed pearls. She carried an arm bouquet of white roses.

Mrs. Joan Melick as her matron of honor was dressed in sea green taffeta with matching mitts and carried a colonial bouquet of amber mums which matched the wreath of amber mums in her hair.

Miss Carolyn Doleiden, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid, and wore a pink taffeta gown with a bolero jacket and matching mitts. On her hair, she wore a wreath of white mums and carried a colonial bouquet of pink and white mums.

Karen Bush, niece of the bride, was junior bridesmaid, and wore a dress of blue taffeta, similar to the bridesmaids, with flower wreath and colonial bouquet.

London Features Venus Look In Its New Fashions For Fall

London—The "Venus" line, featuring small, rounded shoulders, tiny waists and opulent curves, is the decree of London's "big ten" fashion designers this fall.

The collections show no radical change in silhouette, but the rounded look is noticeable in tailored coats and suits.

Three-tiered pockets, kangaroouffed pockets, petal-shaped basques and much use of canvas padding all emphasize the narrow waistline. The hemline is fairly short—two to three inches below the knee.

Velvet is the favorite fabric for day and evening, closely followed by tweeds and woolsens for day and metal jersey and brocade for evening.

Brown in every shade from chocolate to palest mushroom and gray from charcoal to clerical are the top colors. There is much use, also, of reds and greens.

Lachasse new to the "big ten" this year, shows the most eye-catching of these curved lines, with upstanding "cloak-and-dagger" collars sweeping across to a point on one shoulder. He sets them in all sizes on coats, suits and dresses.

Mattli calls his the "Chasuble" line and emphasizes it with rounded hemlines, side-split jackets and important pockets.

Creed focuses on skirt detail and obtains an unusual effect with straight and bias panels used alternately, or with horizontal pleating like a Venetian blind.

Digby Morton's detail on suits includes intricate lapels and pockets buttons back and front, cording and binding. His jackets are a little kinder to the waist than most.

His winter topcoats have a variation on the "starved" waist. He shows straight and loose three-quarter length coats with an asymmetrical effect produced by one full-length tuxedo and one half-length lapel finishing in a collar.

Victor Stiebel's topcoat shows another variation. It has a curved yoke extending to loose bell sleeves. The back is fairly full and the shoulders slope like a bottle.

Nearly all the houses show reversible coats or coats lined in rich colored satin, often with a skirt to match the lining topped by an embroidered cashmere jersey.

Hardy Amies achieves a beautiful effect with a copper taffeta dress under a black wool coat lined with the same material.

Missing Girl Found Beaten To Death

Chicago (AP)—The body of a five-year-old girl, her brains dashed out against a concrete slab, was found in a hobo jungle on the west side yesterday.

Police said the child apparently was swung through the air by the ankles and her head smashed against a makeshift concrete fire-place.

The victim was pretty, blonde Yvonne Georgiana Britz of suburban Cicero. The child apparently was not raped, coroner's physician Cornelius Dore said.

Two pieces of concrete which formed a backlog for hobo fires were stained with brain tissue and hair. The little girl's body bearing scratches on the legs, near the ankles, had been dragged some 25 feet away and left on a wood-grown lot. A trail, clearly marked through high sunflowers and bushes, led to nearby railroad tracks.

An empty pint wine bottle and a candy wrapper were found near the concrete blocks. A blood-stained sunflower stalk was broken in two, evidence of the violence with which the child was swung through the air.

Edwin T. Breen, first assistant state's attorney, said the killing was "the most brutal and wanton I have ever seen."

Yvonne had been missing from her home since Thursday. Her father, Joseph, 39, operates a restaurant in Cicero.

Yvonne's brother, Joseph, nine, said he last saw his sister about 6 p. m. Thursday, talking to a man. A playmate told a member of the family Thursday night Yvonne had been talking to a man in a white shirt and dark trousers.

The child, who weighed 50 pounds and was three feet, four inches tall, was to have started kindergarten next week at St. Attracta's Parochial school near the family home.

Her mother, Wanda, who is expecting another baby, said Yvonne was very friendly.

She had often been warned against the overtures of strangers, Mrs. Britz said.

Experiment To Begin In Utah

By Clifton E. Wilson

Provo, Utah (AP)—The first experiment to prevent Poliomyelitis paralysis in humans, through inoculation with Gamma Globulin, will begin in Provo next Tuesday.

The National Foundation for infantile paralysis announced yesterday that Dr. William McD. Hammon, on leave from University of Pittsburgh, will conduct the experiment.

Children in the age group of three to eight years will be used in the tests, which will be conducted actively through September 8. The foundation says it hopes to try out the usefulness of Gamma Globulin, a blood fraction, on 5,000 of the 12,000 children in the age group in Utah county.

Foundation official said this blood fraction, a portion of human blood containing a large number of antibodies, has proved successful in preventing paralysis in monkeys suffering from the crippling disease.

Gamma Globulin is extracted from blood donated to the Red Cross. It is not expected to be a polio cure or preventative. The foundation hopes only to gain successful results in curbing paralysis in those who contract the disease.

Utah county was chosen for the test site because it is in the midst of a polio epidemic. The foundation says an epidemic exists when 58 of 100,000 persons in a community have a disease. The county has reported 50 cases this year in a population of 81,912.

All the children subjected to the tests will be volunteered by their parents.

Ten-Word Telegram Leaves Scene

New York (AP)—The historic ten-word telegram—nine words plus "love"—bombs from the American scene today after a run of 100 years.

New rates approved by the Federal Communications commission for Western Union, to meet the costs of recent wage increases, change the minimum to 15 words for a telegram.

The rate for a 15-word full rate telegram will be less than before—$1.60 from New York to San Francisco, for instance, against $1.95 formerly. But if you only want to send ten words, you still have to pay the $1.60 minimum, while under the old rate you could send ten words for $1.45. However, the company says the average telegram runs 14 words.

Western Union estimates the new rates, including increases on leased wire services and press messages, will produce approximately $11,000,000 or 6.8 per cent more a year.

Pittsburgher Picked Up As Murder Suspect

Long Beach, Calif. (AP)—A Pittsburgh hoodlum was questioned yesterday in the August 6 Los Angeles gangland shooting of Tony Brancato and Tony Trombino.

Silvio "Slug" Domenico, 36, who says he's a bartender, was arrested here August 24 for investigation of grand theft and failure to register as an ex-convict. Police said he had been living in an apartment in the exclusive Alamitos Bay Peninsula area here for the last two months.

Det. Edward C. Boynton said

Domenico originally was picked up for investigation of an attempted scheme to sell "hot" whiskey to cafes here. Boynton said he is also wanted in Berkeley on a drunk driving charge. Domenico came here from Fresno.

Meanwhile, Det. Lt. John Stack, a homicide officer working out of the Allegheny County, Pa., District Attorney's office, arrived here Thursday from Pittsburgh to talk to Domenico, Stack said. Domenico is wanted back there as a material witness in a slaying. So far Domenico has refused to waive extradition to the Pennsylvania city. Stack and Boynton have conferred with Los Angeles police about the Brancato-Trombino slayings. The Los Angeles police are expected to question Domenico later in the day.

Boynton said Domenico is an alumnus of Sing Sing, where he served two years for a New York City grand theft conviction stemming from black market operations.

Four Sampson Airmen Face Serious Charges

Canandaigua, N. Y. (AP)—Ontario county authorities said yesterday they would place first-degree murder charges against four Sampson airmen as a result of the death of Deputy Sheriff Jack Fennell, 41.

Anthony Cecere, chief county detective and aide to District Attorney Thomas Croucher, said the charges would be placed as soon as an autopsy was completed.

Fennell died earlier yesterday of gunshot wounds allegedly suffered in a running gun battle with the four airmen June 4.

Police said the airmen were fleeing from a filling station holdup here. They were captured at roadblock set up by Geneva police 17 miles east of there and one of them was wounded by a police bullet before they surrendered.

The four were identified as Corp. Joseph McCretton, 22, of North Attleboro, Mass.; Sgt. Stephen Cohn, 21, of New York City who was slightly wounded; Sgt. Peter Gannon, 19, of Woodstock, Pa., and Pfc. Anthony Napoli, 20, of Philadelphia, Pa.

They have been held here since their capture for grand jury action on armed robbery charges.

Sgt. Raymond Rogers of Geneva police said McCretton had admitted orally that he fired the two shots that hit Fennell in the neck and abdomen. Rogers said Fennell had overtaken the airmen in their automobile just outside Canandaigua.

McCole Stationed In North Korea

Westinghouse Workers To Ask For Raise

Pittsburgh (AP)—Some 15,000 salaried workers of Westinghouse Electric Corporation will seek about a five-cent hourly cost-of-living pay raise when their present contract expires November 1, a union official said yesterday.

Harry C. Jones, secretary of the Independent Federation of Westinghouse Salaried Unions, said the exact amount of increase asked will be based on the extent of rise of the Bureau of Labor Statistics Living-Cost index beyond its point at the time of the last pay boost.

Workers now are awaiting government approval of a $15.7 monthly hike which Westinghouse granted last month. Retroactive to April 16, the increase would bring average monthly earnings to $238.60.

When contract talks open next month, Jones said, the union also will ask for increased vacation time for long-service employees and improvements in the pension and social insurance program.

The Federation also will seek a yearly improvement factor which would provide for an automatic wage boost annually for a given number of years.

French Officials File Charges Of Involuntary Homicide Against Two In Famous Bread Case

New Test May Help Prevent Sex Crimes

Chicago, (AP) — A new test, using x-ray and non-x-ray pictures, spots sex offenders and could help prevent sex crimes, a psychologist said yesterday.

The prevention would come through spotting youngsters who are potential sex criminals, and treating them psychologically, said Dr. Harold Lindner, clinical psychologist of the Maguire veterans administration hospital, Richmond, Va.

The test might also help tell when it is "safe" for convicted sex offenders to live normally again in society, he told the American Psychological association.

Dr. Lindner ran the test on 67 convicted sex criminals, all with a long history of abnormal sexuality, and 67 men serving time for non-sexual crimes. The study was made at the Maryland House of Correction.

One phase of the test is line drawings. Each starts simply, using only one or two lines. In five steps, it builds up to either a sexy drawing, or something as innocent as the human eye.

Sex offenders saw sex in these drawings far sooner than other men. They even saw sex in the innocent drawings.

The second phase was vague, incomplete drawings. They could represent abnormal sex behavior, and the sex offenders always saw them that way. Other criminals saw them differently, with no sex tie-up.

Dr. Lindner said he believes sex deviates are different from normal people. Usually the trouble traces back to emotional problems started in childhood. Their parents go to extremes, being too lax or too strict about sex, morals, or other subjects and actions.

He said the sex offender is basically a criminal type, with criminality atop his basic neurosis or emotional problem.

But he held out hope that many sex offenders, particularly young ones, could be helped by psychiatric treatment. The pictures test could measure the progress or return to normal, he added.

Philadelphia (AP) — Agreement on terms for a new contract that would include increases from seven to 13 cents an hour for workers in certain operations was reached yesterday by representatives of the American Federation of Hosiery Workers (AFH) and the Full Fashioned Manufacturers Association of America.

County Game Protectors Urge Nimrods To Delay Applications

Game Protectors in Monroe County urged that nimrods here restrain impatience to get special licenses to hunt antlerless deer and to use bow and arrow against buck deer.

They emphasized that the new licensing bills only became law recently, and the Department of Revenue at Harrisburg has not yet received the application and license forms from the printer.

However, the license section of the department is being swamped with requests for the antlerless deer and bow and arrow permits. Since proper forms are not yet available, the only alternative is to return the money to the senders.

Hunters are advised to wait until September 20 before sending in for archery licenses, and until October 1 for the antlerless deer licenses.

Each County Treasurer, as well as the Revenue Department, can issue licenses to hunt antlerless deer, but the archery licenses come from Department of Revenue only.

In both cases the applicant must also have a current resident or non-resident license to hunt.

Protectors pointed out that hunters have plenty of time. The state-wide season for hunting bucks with bow and arrow runs from October 15 to 27 inclusive, except Sunday the 21st. Antlerless deer may be killed on December 14 and 15.

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

Little League baseball in Monroe County passed out of the picture last night, as the Stroudsburg Little League held its championship contest. The East Stroudsburg circuit had finished its campaign a couple of days earlier, virtually winding up baseball for the present season. However, a pair of energetic youngsters, namely Gary Peckman and Charley Reid, have organized a pair of midget football teams that according to reports are scheduled to tangle in their first game today.

Most of the youngsters taking part in the activities of the newly devised football teams are from the East Stroudsburg Little League. Peckman and Reid are only youngsters themselves, but they have taken over the task of coaching the even younger boys in the rights and wrongs of modern football. The entire program began this week with off-the-record talks and a real scrimmage, held at the home of Tommy Kloess, one of the gridders and an outstanding Little League pitcher.

Pete Westbrook, first baseman for the R. C. Cramer Lumber Co. team during the baseball campaign was the target of both coaches during their pre-season talent search, with Peckman winning out in the final ballot. Helmets were procured from all sections of East Stroudsburg and painted, so that the two clubs will be in colorful condition when the first game is played. Other equipment has also been procured and even though neither eleven is expected to be the best dressed outfit in operation this fall, the kids will probably have a great deal of fun, especially if everything is played on the up-and-up.

More reports reaching this typewriter on the same subject reveal that each game will be played on a field 50 yards long instead of the regular 100-yard affair. If the contests are properly carried out and everything played according to plan, the midget football proposition may turn into an aid to Coach Jack Kist, who at the present time is attempting to build a winning machine at East Stroudsburg High school. If the youngsters receive the proper training in early years, the N. C. Cramer St. school may someday come up with an annual powerhouse.

Charley Coslar, current manager of the Redders entry in the Pocono Mountains Baseball League, will leave for the Navy on Tuesday of next week. However, Charley will play with his Redders mates during the final two games of the current season, namely George N. Kemp Post tomorrow and Lake Harmony on Monday. Infact, according to reports reaching this column yesterday, Coslar is scheduled to pitch the final game of the current season. Charley was a former outstanding athlete at Folk High school, where he captained the basketball team in his senior year.

Charles (Chick) Evans, two-time winner of the national amateur golf championship and Ray Billows, Staatsburg, N. Y., three times runner-up for the crown will compete in the National Old Masters and the Sixth Annual Waite Memorial tournaments to be held over the Shawnee Inn and Country Club course here September 5, 6, 7, 8 and 9.

Billy Hayestick, Lancaster, Pa. and Ey Heland, Bermuda amateur champion, who won the Waite event last year will defend, and event last year will at Shawnee next week defend their crown. Tom Robbins, New York recent winner of the national seniors title and Maurice McCarthy, Cincinnati, winners of the National Old Masters event last year also will be on hand to defend their title.

Hobart Manley, Savannah, Ga., North-South champion; Harvie Ward Jr., Tarboro, N. C.; Ray Billows, Staatsburg, N. Y., three times runner-up for the national amateur crown; Howard Everett, Atlantic City, former Pennsylvania State amateur king who recently shot a record six under par 137 to lead the qualifiers from the Philadelphia District in the national amateur; Bob Babish, Detroit; Leon Bishop, Brockton, Mass. and Tommy Goodwin, Rye, N. Y. are included in the White field will also be in the Waite field.

Charles (Chick) Evans, Chicago, a two-time winner of the national amateur and three times runner-up for the title; Woody Platt, former Philadelphia and Pennsylvania State amateur and open champion; Fred Waring, Shawnee, twice runner-up for the Waite crown; Ed Eisenhower, Tacoma, Wash., brother of General Ike Eisenhower; Ken Huffine, Bronxville, N. Y.; Steve Creekmore, Fort Smith, Arkansas; Ray Jones, Indianapolis and "Bud" Gould, Detroit, are a few of the topflight veterans in the Old Masters.

National Bank Lands Stroudsburg Little League Title

Security Trust
Falters In Final Contest

Stroudsburg National Bank went on a scoring at the Stroudsburg Playground last night and walloped Security Trust, 14-0, to win the 1951 Stroudsburg Little League Championship.

Don Selzer, spacing two hits throughout the abbreviated contest, called after five innings because of darkness, had things under control at all times.

Through not getting many hits, National Bank took advantage of numerous walks by two opposing pitchers and broke a close ball game wide open with five runs in the third inning and eight more in the fourth.

Lead Attack

Ralph Paul and Charley Vaughn collected four of the five hits given up by Bob Coolbaugh and Noel Campbell, each getting two. Ronnie Phillips and Ron Eddy were the only Security Trust players able to solve the offerings of Selzer as they garnered one hit apiece.

This game was replay of an earlier encounter between these two teams, which was won by Security Trust and protested by National Bank. League officials, after weighing both sides of the matter, decided in favor of the latter and set the date of the game which was to be replayed, if necessary at the end of the season. As it turned out, both teams wound up in a tie for first place and made it necessary for the playoff game last night.

College Park, Md. (AP) — Joe Horning of Tarentum, Pa., and Bill Venter of New Kensington, Pa., met for the first time yesterday when they were assigned to the same room as Maryland freshman football players.

They were introducing each other and shaking hands, when Horning blurted:
"Say, aren't you the guy who—" "Yes, I'm the fellow who broke your leg," finished Venter.

It happened when Horning was playing in the backfield of Harrisburg High school against New Kensington for which Venter played tackle.

Pale Hose Blank Tigers As Rogovin Turns On Old Mates
Detroit (AP) — Former Detroit Tiger Saul Rogovin shut out his old teammates for the second time in three weeks as he pitched the Chicago White Sox to a 2-0 triumph last night before 26,698 fans.

The big right-hander beat the Tigers by an identical score on August 15, giving them five hits that last night he was a little more generous in the way of hits, allowing seven, but he was equally stingy with runs.

Marlin Stuart, who lost a 1-0 decision to the Athletics on Monday, was the victim again tonight, although he tried his best to inspire his teammates to do some hitting.

Merry Pace
Stuart set them a merry pace with a triple and two singles, but it was all for naught as his defense collapsed behind him in Chicago's sixth.

Nelson Fox opened the inning with a single and stole second. He moved to third as catcher Bob Swift threw wild for an error in an attempt to halt the steal. Shortstop Johnny Lipon booted Orestes Minoza's grounder for a two-base error and Fox scored. Eddie Robinson singled Minoza home and the White Sox had a two-run lead and the ball game.

It was Rogovin's 10th win of the year and he enjoyed every minute of it. He got George Kell, the Tigers' contender for the American League batting crown, four times. Kell getting the ball out of the infield only once.

Rogovin faced only 33 Detroit batters and gave up nary a walk in whitewashing them again.

Browns Decision Indians On Paige's Relief Hurling, 6-3

Cleveland (AP) — With Satchel Paige pitching a terrific clutch relief assignment against his old mates, the St. Louis Browns belted two homers and defeated the Cleveland Indians, 6 to 3 tonight. The defeat, Cleveland's third straight, sank the Indians a full game below the league-leading New York Yankees.

Paige, making his first appearance on the Municipal stadium mound since the Indians dropped him in 1950, entered the game dramatically for St. Louis in the ninth inning with two Indians on base and nobody out.

Satch made things tough for himself by walking the first man to face him, Early Wynn, to fill the bases.

Great Job
Then he made Dale Mitchell foul out, got Bob Avila to force George Strinweis at second, one run scoring, and wound up matters by fanning Larry Doby.

Paige's cool job saved the victory for Jim McDonald, who won his third against five losses.

Hank Aftl accounted for four St. Louis runs, two on a homer in the fifth. Freddie Marsh belted one with the bases empty in the eighth.

They got them off Bob Lemon, who lost his attempt at his eighth straight. Lemon, himself, delivered the Indians two other runs with a home run, his third, in the seventh inning.

Trabert Fails
To Eliminate
Aussie Ace

By Gayle Talbot

Forest Hills, N. Y. (AP) — Tony Trabert, the 21-year-old bomb shell from Cincinnati, came close to blowing Frank Sedgman right out of the National Tennis championship yesterday, but in the end the greatest of the Australians employed his superior poise to survive, and Tony left the stadium with tears glistening in his eyes and the cheers of nearly 10,000 fans roaring in his ears.

The scores of the thrilling match, in which Sedgman qualified to face defending champion Art Larsen of San Leandro, Calif., in one of tomorrow's semi-finals, were 3-6, 6-2, 7-5, 3-6, 6-3.

When Tony won the first set with a terrific display of power tennis, it looked as though the last foreigner in the tournament was on his way out. But it wasn't to be.

Larsen had to win two matches to keep pace with the blond Aussie. First the coast lefty finished off Hamilton Richardson of Baton Rouge, La., 6-4 3-6, 6-1, 3-6, 7-5, in a match halted by darkness Thursday night, and then he soundly licked his former nemesis, Gardner Mulloy of Coral Gables, Fla., 6-8, 6-1, 6-2, 6-4 in his quarter-final test.

Round Behind

Dick Savitt, of Orange, N. J., playing a round behind the field after being laid up for a day with a leg infection, had no difficulty at all subduing Straight Clark of Pasadena, Calif., 6-3, 6-1, 6-3. The Wimbledon and Australian champion was limping slightly and treating the leg very gingerly, but his striking was much too severe for Clark.

In one of today's quarter-finals, Savitt will collide with Budge Patty of Los Angeles, the player who preceded him as Wimbledon titlist. The other will match Herbie Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., against Vic Seixas, the handsome Philadelphia player who upset Ken McGregor of Australia in the previous round.

Two women's semi-finalists also were decided during the day. Second-seeded Shirley Fry of Akron, O., survived a very shaky first set to defeat Kay Tuckey of England, 9-7, 3-6, 6-2, and Maureen Connolly of San Diego blasted Jean Quertier of England off the stadium court by 6-3, 6-3.

Miss Fry's semi-final opponent will be decided today in a match between Mrs. Magda Rurac of Los Angeles and Mrs. Jean Walker-Smith, of England. Doris Hart of Miami figures to defeat Nancy Chaffee, of Beverly Hills in Miss Connolly's bracket.

Wins Women's Tennis Title

Eagles Mere, Pa. (AP) — Alice Ferenbach, Philadelphia, yesterday won the Eagles Mere women's singles tennis title by beating defending champion Mrs. Betty Smith, Reading, Pa., 6-1, 6-4.

Second seeded Miss Ferenbach reached the final round yesterday with a two set love victory over Pittsburgh's Joanne Stucky. She had almost as easy a time in subduing Mrs. Smith, who had moved into the final for the second straight year on the heels of a hard earned three set win over Mrs. Harold Farrington, Danbury, Conn.

Men's Division

The men's division, a day behind the women's play, found Ed Wesley, Chevy Chase, Md., winning a semi-final round match over Owen Landon of Williamsport, Pa., 6-0, 6-5. His final opponent today will be Gil Rothrock, New Cumberland, Pa., who struggled to a three set, 4-6, 6-3, 7-5 triumph over Fred McNear of Washington, D. C.

Today's women's doubles final will pit the team of Miss Ferenbach and Mrs. Farrington against the Luck Haven mother and daughter duo of Mrs. Gibson and Mrs. Pat Holt.

Washington (AP) — Secretary of State Acheson left for the Japanese Peace Conference yesterday after challenging Russia to sign the treaty if it sincerely wants peace.

Acheson said the conference opening at San Francisco September 4 "will provide a test for those nations that really want peace and those that do not."

TOMORROW'S SCHEDULE

Kemp Post at Redders

Second Place Playoff Contest Scheduled

Three games are on tap in the Pocono Mountains Baseball League for this Labor Day weekend, including that important tussle at Saylorsburg tomorrow at 2 p.m. between Ananook and Saylorsburg. The battle will decide second and third places in the final standings.

Both Saylorsburg and Ananook have identical records of 12 wins and six losses. The winner of this game will open the playoffs against Tobyhanna, while the loser will face Kunkletown, which has already clinched the regular season championship.

Starters
Either Jim Correll or Dick Miller will do the hurling for Ananook, while Floyd "Peas-nuts" Moyer will probably do pitching for Saylorsburg. The other game tomorrow will find Kemp Post journeying to Reeders to meet the ball club of that locality in a game scheduled to get underway at 2 p.m. Reeders will also be the host Monday, Labor Day, at 2 p.m., when it opposes the Lake Harmony agnats.

Rams Clash With Eagles In Exhibition Battle

Little Rock (AP)—The Los Angeles Rams, who have been painting a pre-season picture of awe in the National Football league, meet up with an old nemesis—the Philadelphia Eagles—here tonight.

While favored by a couple of touchdowns to chalk up their third exhibition victory without a loss, the Rams haven't topped the Eagles since 1942. Twice over the span the teams have tied—28-28 in the 1948 season and 24-24 in an exhibition here two years ago. The remainder of the meetings have resulted in Eagle triumphs. Even last year, when the Rams were NFL runners-up to Cleveland, they lost to the Eagles by lopsided scores twice, once in an exhibition. A crowd of 32,000 is forecast.

Boxer Still In Coma

New York (AP)—Boxer George Flores still was in a coma yesterday and Dr. Vincent A. Nardiello said his condition was "very grave."

The physician for the State Athletic commission added, however, that "every minute he remains alive, the better are his chances."

Flores, a 20-year-old welterweight, has been unconscious over 40 hours. He lapsed into the coma in his dressing room in Madison Square garden Wednesday night after he had been knocked out in the eighth and last round of a semi-final by Roger Donoghue, of Yorkers, N. Y.

End of Road
If he recovers, Flores will never fight again, his 18-year-old bride vowed yesterday.

"I'm going to make him quit the ring," she said in her hospital room which is next to her husband's. "He can do whatever he wants to do—anything but boxing. I don't like it and never did."

It was learned that Flores is not an orphan as was reported earlier. His father is dead but his mother, Mrs. Consuelo Capp, has re-married and lives in Ottawa, Canada.

Ward Scores Win Over Locke
Southampton, England (AP)—Dapper Charlie Ward won the Lotus 72-hole golf tournament yesterday on the 6,270-yard Stoneham layout with an aggregate score of 69-68-65-68—270.

Ward, who has been selected for the British Ryder Cup team to play the United States at Pinehurst, N. C., November 2 and 4, won first money of $980.

Dispute Between AFL, CIO Ruins Opening Of State Fair

Detroit (AP) — A jurisdictional dispute between the AFL and the CIO messed up the opening of the Michigan State Fair yesterday.

The dispute forced cancellation of comedian Bob Hope's afternoon show in the Coliseum. It stopped a luncheon for Gov. G. Mennen Williams, Hope and fair officials. It left the gates without ticket handlers and the public walked in free.

Hope refused to cross an AFL picket line.

"I belong to a union too," Hope said.

The dispute between the AFL and CIO arose over who was to dispense ginger ale.

The AFL's hotel and restaurant employees union contended it had a contract to sell ginger ale at 20 booths on the fair grounds.

James Hare, the fair's personnel director, said the contract had been awarded recently to a CIO union.

After AFL representatives found non-AFL workers serving ginger ale, five women pickets appeared at the main gate of the fair. Police escorted the pickets away a few minutes before Gov. Williams and his party arrived to cut a ribbon officially opening the fair.

The women were taken to a police station and later released.

There were more embarrassing moments later.

The governor, comedian Hope, radio singer Marilyn Maxwell and a group of distinguished guests went to the clubhouse for a luncheon.

AFL cooks and waitresses had locked the food in the kitchen. The waitresses had disappeared.

Civil Rights Money Tossed Out By Judge

Philadelphia (AP) — Cash posted as bail for Steve Nelson, western Pennsylvania Communist leader, will not be accepted from the Civil Rights Congress, U. S. Commissioner Henry P. Carr said yesterday.

At a hearing yesterday, Carr permitted the $20,000 cash already posted by the Congress for Nelson to stand because there was no Federal judge available to rule on his decision. He continued the hearing until 11 a. m. Wednesday.

Nelson went before Carr yesterday for a hearing on his removal to Pittsburgh to face charges of conspiring to overthrow the government. Carr's action was taken upon request by U. S. Attorney Gerald Gleason who pointed out that four convicted Communist leaders skipped bail posted by the Civil Rights Congress in New York.

BRANDED a "potential killer," actor John Agar (above) hears himself sentenced by Municipal Judge Vernon W. Hunt in Los Angeles to five months in jail on conviction for drunken driving. Barkley Can Appreciate Real Beauty

Washington (AP) — Vice President Alben Barkley yesterday took one look at tall, brunette Charlotte Simmen—Miss Arkansas of 1951—and exclaimed:

"Ain't nature grand?"

Charlotte came here to present Barkley a gray cat's paw hat and invite him to attend the Arkansas livestock show October 6 in her home town of Little Rock. Barkley turned to Les Biffle, secretary of the Senate and an Arkansan, and said "the half of it hadn't been told" when Biffle earlier described Charlotte's looks to him.

Then with a twinkle in his eye, Barkley asked Charlotte:

"It wouldn't be possible that your ancestors came from Kentucky?"

Barkley is a Kentuckian.

The Vice President thanked Charlotte for the invitation to the livestock show but said he doubted that he would be free to attend it.

Brown-eyed 18-year-old Charlotte is on her way to Atlantic City where she will represent Arkansas next week in the annual beauty pageant.

Scranton, Reading Among Towns Listed

Washington (AP) — Crime and corruption work hand-in-hand in Scranton and Reading, Pa., the Senate Crime Investigating committee charged yesterday.

Sprinkled through thousands of words of the committee's final report were such statements as:

"A multi-million dollar Treasury balance lottery."

"Law enforcement officials in Scranton seemingly are afflicted with the same peculiar blindness toward organized gambling that has been apparent to the committee in its inquiries in other cities."

Reading is "an open town" where "two horse rooms operated without molestation within a short distance of the center of the city, one within the shadow of city hall itself." Slot machines "were exposed openly" and "punchboards littered store counters."

"The committee has no difficulty in arriving at the conclusion that Reading is a classic example of political strangulation of a police department at the behest of gambling interests seeking to thwart any interference in their activities."

The report on Scranton said the committee had found "the ramifications of a multi-million-dollar Treasury balance lottery," and noted that "there is a strange reluctance on the part of the police of Scranton to arrest anybody for violations of the gambling laws."

"Horse rooms are never raided. Periodically, when the heat is on, the order goes out to close and stay closed but such an edict lacks any prolonged or lasting effectiveness."

"The same can also be said for the cities of Pittston and Wilkes-Barre in adjoining Luzerne county."

The committee said it regretted it could not question Jack Parisi, long-time associate of Albert Anastasia, reputed leader of Murder, Inc., in New York. The report went on to detail Parisi's record and identified him as manager of a dress factory at Nuremberg, near Hazelton.

Anastasia and others, the report said, are partners in the Madison Dress Co., in Hazelton, and Harry Strasser, alias Cohen, is listed as the owner of the Mount Carmel Garment Co., in Mount Carmel; the Bobby Dress Co., in Dickson City, and the Interstate Dress Transportation Company, Strasser, the committee said, has a New York criminal record.

"The committee also has evidence of additional infiltration of the garment industry in Pennsylvania by racket interests, but lack of time and funds compelled the committee to forgo more intensive investigation of this phase of racketeering activity in legitimate business," the report added.

It had words of praise only for the Pennsylvania State police, commenting:

"Except for the aggressive investigation accomplishments of the Pennsylvania State police, and their noteworthy efforts to cripple lottery operations centered in the cities of northeastern Pennsylvania, the committee finds that official lethargy toward organized gambling is so appalling as to be shocking to the public conscience."

Law enforcement officers, the report went on, employ a "clap on the wrist" attitude toward gambling. This is evident, the Senators found, in the "close and stay closed" orders of nebulous nature that can hardly be regarded as an adequate substitute for rigid enforcement that is marked by arrest and conviction and, where the circumstances warrant it, imprisonment.

Lackawanna county's District Attorney, Carlton M. O'Malley, "gave what seemed to the committee to be a rather unsatisfactory explanation of the small number of gambling prosecutions in his county," the committee charged.

"He said his office by tradition is a prosecuting office, not a police agency. He said he would be naive if he attempted to tell the committee Scranton horse rooms did not exist, or had not existed for a number of years, but he claimed that responsibility for any laxity rested with the city police department.

The report noted that two Scranton police captains, Richard Beyon and James G. Conboy "blatantly insisted that their manifold duties in other fields of police work left them with little time to enforce gambling laws. It cited David A. Haggerty, a constable in Scranton for 12 years, as having refused to tell the committee whether or not he had any interest in a horse room on Penn Avenue.
